MACMILLAN BAME CANCER PROJECT

Sunderland Bangladesh International Centre is working in partnership with Macmillan Cancer Support to improve the cancer care and support for all black and minority ethnic (BAME) communities within Sunderland. We are working together to ensure equity of care is in place for all.

We will do this by:

- Educating the community about the importance of screening for cancer.
- Support access into the health system and navigation through it.
- Offer tailored support for you as an individual, working with you to support your needs.
- Enabling change across health settings and systems to improve experience of someone with cancer.
